

The background is a map of a city area, likely Copenhagen, showing a dense network of roads. Overlaid on the map are numerous colored lines in green, red, orange, and purple. These lines represent individual vehicle trajectories or aggregated traffic flows derived from Floating Car Data (FCD). The lines are of varying thickness and color, possibly indicating different levels of congestion or travel time. The text is centered over the map.

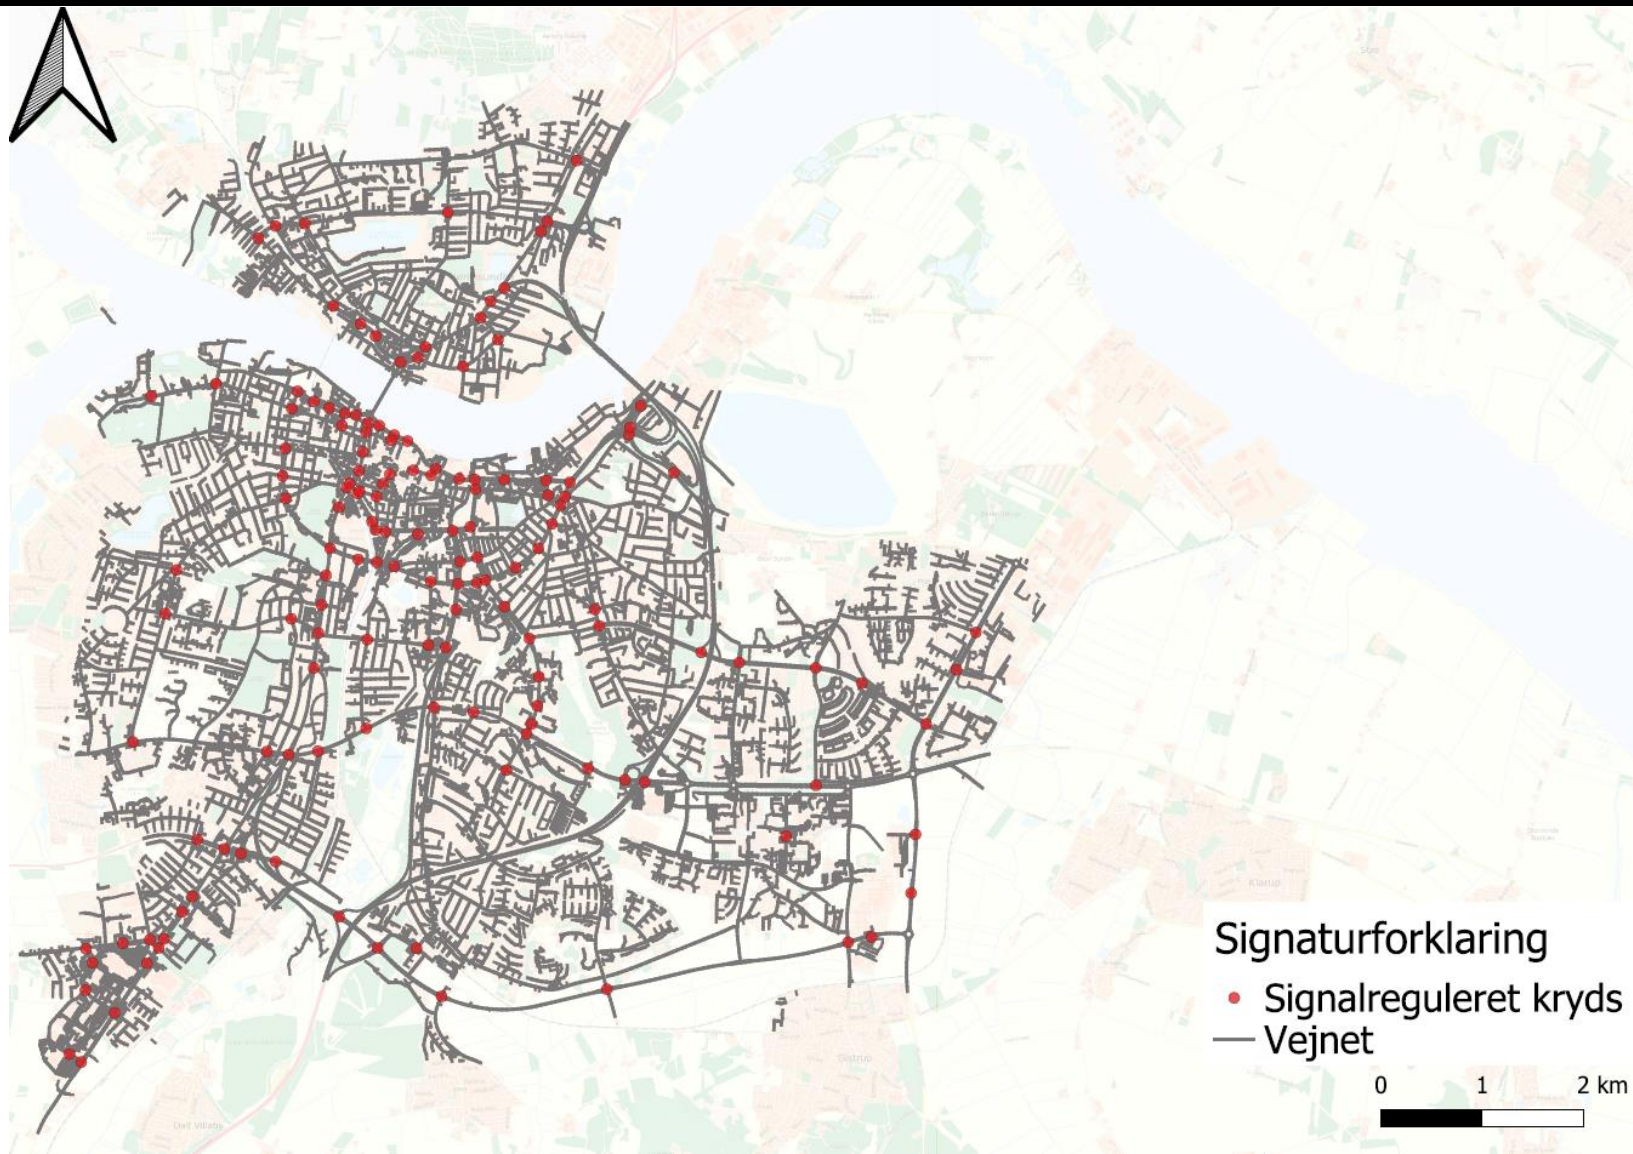

Fremkommenlighedsanalyse

Ved brug af Floating Car Data

Floating Car Data

QGIS Model

Fremkommenlighedmodel

